

THE POSTSECRET PROJECT

---

The PostSecret Project: What can be learned from listening to the secret confessions of other people? A lot, actually. A lot that is useful for understanding who we are as humans, the challenges we face as individuals and families and the opportunities that exist for promoting personal growth and building stronger communities.

In 2004, Frank Warren began collecting secrets from total strangers. Since that time, this community art project has attracted cleverly designed postcards from all around the world, resulting in numerous books, a very popular website and a national discussion about the joys and hardships of everyday life. The presentation will explore the nature of secrets, the character of our shared experience and the importance of finding help in difficult times. At times humorous and always insightful, Warren's postcard collection can help each of us gain a better appreciation of our differences and similarities.

Please join us as we welcome

Travis Tamerius

Director of the Center for Ethics and Global Studies

William Woods University

Monday, September 30

Central Office - Conference Room 100

2:00 – 3:00

Attendees will receive 1 hour LMS credit for attendance